…IN A PAGE OF NOTES

Born in Rome in November 1971, I spent my early years amongst Nature in Africa, then within Italian Culture, and later in the French Education system.
In 1990 I take my International BACCALAURÉAT at the renowned Lycée International de Saint Germain-en-Laye. I attend EHESS courses and at the University of Communication in Paris I obtain the DEGREE in Global Communication, and a MASTER in Public Relations. The latter includes a thesis entitled: "How to face intercultural barriers, in international negotiations".
During University I undertake a series of INTERNSHIPS: at communication agency Euro RSCG; at financial company Pictet Group in London; at marketing sector of Alitalia airline; and at UNESCO in Paris.
To earn I do short-term JOBS: from acting for advertising to waiter in bars and at McDonald's; from supermarket clerk to sailing ship crewman and water wells drilling in the Kalahari desert in Botswana.
In 1991 I found Loako, a HUMANITARIAN organization that, for 10 years, acts as intermediary between European students and projects in developing countries. Its main function is to promote humanitarian campaigns involving young volunteers, do fundraising and organize dozens of summer School courses, mainly in Ethiopia.
Having finished my studies in France in 1994, I spend a year traveling across the 5 CONTINENTS, performing Magic shows in pubs throughout twelve countries. This is helped by my fluency in 4 LANGUAGES.
At the end of 1995 I return to regular employment with the UNITED NATIONS in Kenya, as assistant for communication development in Eastern Africa. Based at Unesco headquarters in Nairobi, I appraise and implemented financial requests for Communication and Media activities; aimed at the development of Democracy. But the career at the U.N. is abruptly interrupted…
End 1996 I return to Italy, entering the ADVERTISING industry and basing myself in Milan. For 2 YEARS I work for Gruppo Pubblicita Italia where I manage editorial projects and promote events and shows. Advisor in Social Communication, I CREATE 'Opportunity', weekly magazine insert focusing on job offers in Non-Profit sector.
I become well-established, gradually gaining work experience and increasing income…
But in 1998 it's time to realise a DREAM: do the 'Round the World tour without money nor luggage'. I resign from my employment and submit the idea to sponsors and to the Guinness of Records. 109 days of 'the high school of life' around the world. The communication project gathers success; long articles appear, from Daily to Weekly and Monthly; from the Los Angeles Times to school diaries; from talk shows to television news.
My Name appears in gossip columns, on TV quiz shows and at the Wheel of Fortune*!*
I start to write, and in 1999 German publisher Ullstein – Bild Buch, publishes my first BOOK: 'Ohne Geld um die Welt'. It is then published in Italy by Piemme, France by Hachette, Canada by France Loisirs. Around 50 thousand copies are sold and several awards won. Present on italian Wikipedia, among contemporary travel writers.
